Fund returns

Share markets declined in September as investors digested the potential inflationary implications of a surging crude oil price (+6.9% for the month), along with brinkmanship from US lawmakers regarding the Government's funding bill. The European Central Bank raised rates by 0.25% to 4.0% while other major global central banks including the Reserve Bank of Australia kept rates on hold during the month.

The Australian share market declined (-2.9%) in September: the Healthcare and Technology sectors slumped while Energy stocks saw gains, buoyed by higher oil prices. A-REITs declined sharply (-8.7%) for the month. Currency-hedged international equities fell (-3.8%) and currency-unhedged international equities returned (-4.0%) as the Australian dollar gained against the Euro and Yen but fell against the US dollar.

The Australian 10-year government bond yield jumped by 0.46% to 4.49% pa and the US 10-year government bond yield rose by 0.46% to close at 4.57% pa.

Against this backdrop, the Fund declined (-2.7%) for the month. The Fund achieved gains on short-duration investment grade (Barings) and syndicated loan (Bentham) exposures, its direct inflation-linked bond holdings and on the AU Healthcare Property Trust. These were offset by weakness in the Fund's indexed Australian REITs, Australian and international share holdings, and duration-sensitive bond exposures. The Fund's one-year return sits at +10.4%, with double-digit gains on its Australian and international share exposures the key contributors to returns.

The Fund has achieved solid returns over longer periods. The return since inception is a little above objective (currently inflation + 3.75% pa), despite the impacts of COVID's emergence in 2020 and share and bond market losses which preceded central bank rate rises to counter high inflation. Over the past five years the Fund's strongest contributors include the Australian Unity Healthcare Property Trust at +15.2% pa, iShares Indexed International Equity Fund (Unhedged) at +10.1% pa, and the Antipodes Global Fund at +7.7% pa.

Fund portfolio management

The Fund trimmed its direct property exposure during the month, adding to its holding in (relatively-attractive) Australian shares. Additionally, the Fund increased its interest rate duration toward month-end, after increases in Australian and global bond yields improved the prospective returns on fixed interest assets.

At month-end, the Fund's positioning can be summarised as:

Australian shares – The Fund expects to achieve a solid return premium versus risk-free assets over the medium-to-long term, bolstered by franking credits. We maintain a slight overweight exposure, holding a blend of underlying managers that provide diversification across company size, industry exposure and investment styles, to improve the consistency of returns.

International shares – We believe most global share markets offer strong long-term returns for the risk being adopted. US equities remain the exception – we see the largest companies (in particular) as expensive and at risk of poor performance in coming years, and therefore maintain an underweight exposure to this market.

Real assets – The different return drivers for real assets versus listed equities provide diversification benefits for investors. We currently prefer listed assets, as these currently trade at discount to direct/unlisted assets and have greater liquidity.

Defensive assets – Current long-dated bond yields offer a meaningful return pickup relative to (zero-duration) cash. Accordingly, we have increased duration within the Fund's fixed interest exposures recently. Credit spreads offer adequate compensation for the risk being assumed. Accordingly, the Fund holds exposures to domestic and international credit managers.

Outlook

Investors are keenly focused on global central banks' efforts to control inflation through tighter monetary policy without sending economies and vulnerable industries into recession. We believe most central banks are nearing the end of the current tightening cycle given signs of moderating inflation in recent months.

On a medium-to-long term view most growth assets (with the notable exception of US shares) continue to offer an attractive return premium versus risk-free assets, leading the Fund to adopt a "neutral" overall risk position.
